"The Kid," a farce-comedy that was acted at the Columbus Theatre, Harlem, a few weeks ago, was seen at the Windsor Theatre last night. Its authors are Hebry White, a well-known and well-liked Brooklyn journalist, and Laurent Howard. The piece went very well and the audience laughed incessanity. The cast included bottle fine, Gertrude Fort, Fannie Woodward, Emma Carr, Kate Francis, James F, Callahan and the Garden City Quartet.

NEW PARK THEATRE. Jack McAuliffe, the puglilst, was the "star" at the New Park Theatre inst night. He gave a scientific exhibition of puglilsm, and aphase voice peared to satisfy the audience. The vaudeville programme included Harry Kennedy, Filson and Errol, Haines and Videcq, William Jerome, Varola, Ducrow, Martinetti and Lorella in a sketch entitled "The Professor, with His Dog and Monkey." Les Camilies, French quettists, from the Eden Theatre, l'aris, made their first appearance at Koster & Bial's concert hail last night. Their work was clever. It consisted of scenes from grand opera, in costume. Marie Vanoni sang some new songs and was loudly applauded; Amann continued his clever impersonations to which he irrequently adds; while other attractions were Wood and Sheppard, "Robin Hood," stewart and Dorothy Denning.

TONY PASTOR'S

Rellly and Wood's big show delighted a large audience at Tony Pastor's Theatre last night. Pat Rellly himself appeared in a sketch called "The New Hades and the 400," in which a number of pretty girls, bright costumes and novel electric effects were seen. The Borani brothers did their famous disappearing act; Vita presented "the rapturous Kasuta-Kasuta;" Miss Lilly Laurel sang "Tara-a-boom-de-ay," and Ford and Lewis contributed a clever sketch.
